Winter months tend to have a chilling effect on mothers who are unable to provide warm coats and socks for their children. Oftentimes, it's these items that most of us take for granted that can be the spark of hope for children as they walk to school with the precious gift of being warm. Additionally, gift cards to places such as Target and Walmart enable homeless women to purchase items necessary to reclaiming their role as a nurturing and caring parent. All financial contributions assist Time for Change Foundation in providing our shelter services, transportation, childcare and educational supplies, among other things.
