The end of the year also means the end of matching donations for the Time For Change Foundation.

Thursday is the final day for the matching donations. Until midnight, any donations made through the CNN Hero site — www.cnn.com/donations/kim-carter.html for San Bernardino-based Time for Change— will be matched with a donation of the same amount by Subaru.

Voters chose Kim Carter, the founder of Time For Change, as one of its top 10 heroes for 2015.

Maggie Doube, New Jersey woman who used her babysitting savings to change the lives of hundreds of Nepalese women and children, was then chosen as 2015 CNN Hero of the Year.

Since 2007, the CNN initiative has honored more than 200 people in 80 countries, but Carter said she is the first to make the top 25 from San Bernardino, Riverside, San Diego or Orange counties.

Time for Change Foundation has helped close to 800 women since 2002, with a mission to empower disenfranchised low-income women and families by building leadership through evidence-based programs and housing to create self-sufficiency and thriving communities.
