Eight community leaders, a drug addiction treatment center in Bloomington and a San Bernardino Mexican restaurant will be honored for their contributions to society by Time for Change Foundation at the nonprofit's 16th annual Awards Gala on April 13.

Honorees include Harvey Nurick, Richard Michaelson, Carolyn Eggleston, Bobby Barzi, Virginia Blumenthal, Jordyn Rivera, Jayda Rasberry and Mianta McKnight. Cedar House Life Change Center is receiving the Community Champion award and Mitla Cafe, the Unsung Hero award.

Rivera will receive the Humanitarian award posthumously. The 21-year-old Cal State San Bernardino student was one of 58 people killed last year at the Route 91 Harvest music festival in Las Vegas.

Founded by Kim Carter in 2002, Time for Change has helped more than a thousand homeless women and children return to their feet. What started as a six-bed shelter has grown into an Inland Empire resource for disenfranchised, low-income individuals and families.

Carter recently received a James Irvine Foundation Leadership Award for her work solving one of California's most pressing issues. The James Irvine Foundation granted San Bernardino-based Time for Change $200,000 to support its cause.

"Time for Change Foundation is an organization that wraps its arms around homeless women and children," Carter said upon receiving the award. "We take them through a journey to self-sufficiency. We don't recycle homelessness, we end it."

Next month's gala is scheduled from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Doubletree Hotel by Hilton in Ontario.
